

International Summer School 2019

University of Southampton – 15 July to 9 August 2019

We are delighted to announce the University of Southampton International Summer School 2019.

The school lasts for 4 weeks and promises to be exciting, engaging and informative, offering topics from a wide range of subjects from around the University. The school is credit-bearing which may be able to count towards your studies at your home university.

When you join our International Summer School, you are booking your place as part of an internationally recognised centre for world-class research, education and learning. You will explore the UK and its culture and heritage - both through exciting study in the classroom and on the road in the many trips and excursions. You will take home fond memories of a cultural experience rooted in the hundred-year tradition of one of the UK's top universities and make great friends.

- Social Leadership for Impact
- Stonehenge and the Ancient World
- Terrorists vs Counter-Terrorists
- Understanding Business in a New World
- Women in Film

When you join the International Summer School 2019, you will study up to six exciting topics across the four weeks you are with us. Each topic is delivered by an internationally-recognised member of academic staff at the University of Southampton working in partnership with one of our many exceptional postgraduate research students. Across three engaging and interactive classroom sessions, they will introduce you to their topic of choice, explaining why it is important to them and offering you an insight into the world-class research environment they work in. You'll find each topic is a friendly and engaging experience: you will normally study in groups with around 15 – 20 fellow students, allowing you to form good working relationships and have the opportunity to contribute and discuss in class.
